Adrian Shaughnessy is a designer, author, co-founder of the publishing imprint Unit Editions, and host of a series of radio shows on ResonanceFM called Graphic Design on the Radio.

Nick Sowers is a Sound Architect. He launched his Oakland-based practice Soundscrapers in 2008, and founded Demilit in 2010 to scour landscapes for quotidian connections between spaces, objects, individuals, and authority.

Nicola Twilley is a writer, journalist, and author of multiple books. She is a co-host of the podcast Gastropod and a contributor to The New Yorker. She also runs the blog Edible Geography.

SCHEDULE

9:45-9:55 Michael Bierut + Jessica Helfand
Opening Remarks

9:55-10:25 Adrian Shaughnessy
Graphic Design on the Radio

Graphic designers are often reluctant to describe what they do—they just do it. After hosting Graphic Design on the Radio for five years, Shaughnessy shares the joys and frustrations of persuading graphic designers to talk about their work live on air.

10:25-10:50 Nicola Twilley
Sound Bites

A short tour of audio foodscapes: the places where sound, design, and food overlap, from acoustic agriculture and urban sound design, to the art and science of sonic seasoning.

10:50-11:10 Mike Errico
Dancing About Architecture

Recording artist, writer, music supervisor, and educator Mike Errico talks and performs.

11:10-11:35 Alexander Chen
Strings + Code

What does a scribble sound like? What if the New York City subway map was a string instrument? How can we visualize melodies and time patterns? Alexander Chen's experiments blend music, design, and code to explore these ideas.

11:35-12:35 Debbie Millman
Design Matters

In this live episode of Design Matters, Debbie Millman talks to editor, curator, and design fairy godmother Chee Pearlman about editing a design magazine and designing conferences.

12:35-2:15 Lunch Break

2:15-2:45 Michael Nino Evensen + Amir Shaikh
The Sound of Storytelling

A historical/scientific perspective on the origins of storytelling and why spoken stories have such a profound role in the human experience. We imagine doing this through audio clips of our favorite podcasts, highlighting profound moments where the audience can understand how mature our ability to hear context beyond what someone is saying (trembling, hesitation, joy, excitement, etc).

2:40-3:05 EunJin Cho
Got Sound?

Sound design is often regarded as non-visual and one of the most subjective elements of design. Got Sound? explores sound design for the theater and how it's interconnected to everyday life.

3:05-3:30 Juliet Kinchin
Design for Ear and Eye

MoMA curator Juliet Kinchin will discuss her most recent exhibit Making Music Modern: Design for Ear and Eye.

3:30-3:55 Nick Sowers + Geoff Manaugh
Ghost in the Wall

Nick Sowers and Geoff Manaugh will engage in a conversation about sound, space, and architecture. Intermixed with the sounds, Geoff will discuss with Nick the possibilities of sound architecture for the various environments we inhabit—offices, houses, public places, and the spaces in between.

3:55-4:20 Steven Heller
The Expert Witness

Reprising some of his own radio, television, and film bites, Steven Heller will discuss the art of speaking in short sentences and the serendipity of being on call to give resonant sound bites.

4:20-4:45 Tobias Frere-Jones + Sasha Frere-Jones
Rock, Paper, Scissors, Type

Tobias Frere-Jones has established himself as one of the world's leading typeface designers. Sasha Frere-Jones is a critic, curator, musician, and the executive editor of genius.com. They will be interviewed by Adrian Shaughnessy on how both of their professions have been affected by the digital revolution.

4:45-5:15 Michael Bierut + Jessica Helfand
The Observatory

5:30-8:00 Reception
Art Directors Club Gallery
